Vomitoxin (DON) is a mycotoxin produced by certain strains of the fungus Fusarium moniliforme and Fusarium graminearum. It is a neurotoxin that can cause vomiting and diarrhea in humans and animals. In crops, it can cause seedling mortality, stunted growth, and reduced yields. The presence of Vomitoxin in crops is a concern for human and animal health, and it is regulated by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

For production that contains substances or conditions determined to be injurious to human or animal health, when applicable, adjustments will be made for levels of substances or conditions in excess of the amount allowed by the lower of the following:

- Vomitoxin (DON) levels in the crop exceed the tolerance level established by the FDA.
- The crop is determined to be injurious to human or animal health by a public health agency of the applicable State in which the insured crop is grown.

For production that will be stored on the farm, or in commercial storage (except for production containing Vomitoxin), the appropriate samples must be obtained prior to harvest and analyzed for Vomitoxin. If the analysis shows that the crop contains Vomitoxin at a level greater than the tolerance level established by the FDA, the crop will be considered to be contaminated and the insured will be responsible for the cost of disposal.

- For production containing Vomitoxin only (no other Section C deficiencies are present) qualifying under section C and that has a level of 10.0 ppm or less, the DF will be the sum of all RIVs applied by the buyer due to all insurable quality deficiencies, and that value divided by the local market price.
 - Sold to a disinterested third party prior to 60 days after the calendar date for the EOIP, the DF will be the sum of all RIVs applied by the buyer due to all insurable quality deficiencies, and that value divided by the local market price.
 - Not sold to a disinterested third party prior to 60 days after the calendar date for the EOIP, the DF will be the sum of all RIVs applied by the buyer due to all applicable DFs shown in the chart below (unless you elect to delay settlement as specified in the General Statements above) added to the applicable DFs included in sections A or B2 above.
 - Unsold 60 days after the calendar date for the EOIP, fed, utilized in any other manner, or is sold to other than a disinterested third party, the DF will be the applicable DFs shown in the chart below added to the applicable DFs included in sections A or B3 above.
